ProQuest’s Primary Source Collections
Second to None!

230M+ pages of world-class collections

400+ years of historical coverage

50+ newspapers covering over 350 years

= 2,000+ years of history including the largest collection of historical periodicals

98% of faculty believe it is extremely important to assign primary sources to students to develop critical thinking skills

95% of Humanities Upper Division faculty assign primary source materials in their teaching

93% of employers say critical thinking, clear communication and the ability to solve complex problems is more important than a student’s undergraduate major

357 Number of subject areas covered by publications that cite historical periodicals*

*Selected ProQuest Historical Periodicals analyzed